NewComm Technologies to represent ISIS Group products in the US Mid-Atlantic Region

January 23, 2007

Lititz, PA – NewComm Technologies, a Mid-Atlantic Manufacturers Representative firm serving the Audio/Visual Industry, announced today that they have added the ISIS Group to their line of high quality manufacturers. NewComm will begin representing the ISIS Group line immediately for dealers in North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, and Pennsylvania.

NewComm specializes in installation and design-build solutions for a variety of products including high-end video signal processing & image manipulation equipment, audio & video teleconferencing, wire & cable, and projection solutions. “We are all very excited to be able to work with the ISIS Group, we feel their products are a true compliment for our broadcast oriented customers” commented Dave Francis, President of NewComm Technologies. “

“We believe our success is directly related to the energy and enthusiasm of our reps,” said Len Dole, ISIS Group President. He continued, “That’s why we’re so pleased to have NewComm representing ISIS and Graham-Patten. We’re working hard to bring out new products for the AV and HD markets, and we think this partnership will get those products to the users who need them.”

About NewComm Technologies:

NewComm Technologies is a manufacturer's representative firm serving the audio visual and communications Industries. Its select manufacturers' products fill the needs of installation and design-build integrators in the mid-Atlantic United States.

Originally established in 1985 as Franklin Communications, the organization's vision was to offer best in class products and services to the A/V community. In 1996 the company was purchased by David Francis and Jennifer Bard and renamed NewComm Technologies. Today, combining over 60 years of industry sales and technical experience, NewComm Technologies brings the manufacturer and dealer together in order to provide customer oriented, creative solutions.

NewComm Technologies' manufacturers offer a wide variety of pieces of the Audio/Visual Integration puzzle.
